LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus has said he is willing to work for approval of public school forces plan for guaranteeing schools a fixed percentage of state revenues, if the plan has backing from other groups.

Faubus said Monday he believes differences in his proposed constitutional amendment on the subject and the amendment proposed by school forces can be worked out.

And, he added, an initiated act such as the schoolmen propose which would give the legislature leeway to act, might be better than his proposed amendment.

Faubus proposed the amendment last Saturday, the same day that the committee for Public Schools came out with its plan.

The committee is backed by the Arkansas Education Association, and Faubus and the AEA have been at odds over this problem for some time.

The governor's amendment would give the schools 52 per cent of state funds after deductions to run constitutional offices of the government. The AEA-backed plan would set 50 per cent for the schools, with no deductions.

The governor's plan would permit the 52 per cent figure to be changed by the legislature, but the AEA-backed plan would permit the legislature to adjust the figure upward.

Faubus said if any agreement is reached about setting school funds, "it should work both ways."

That is, the legislature should be able to raise or lower the amount.

The governor said his plan would provide an alternative if the state Supreme Court invalidates the state Revenue Stabilization Act, which now is under attack in a court suit.

The law controls allocation of state funds, including those to schools. But even if the law is held constitutional, Faubus said, he approved of an amendment such as his and the school forces proposed.

World Day of Prayer Observance

On Friday, March 9 at 2 p.m., the United Council of Church Women will meet in the First Methodist Church to observe World Day of Prayer. Christian Women all over the world will be united in prayer fellowship on that day.

This year marks the 75th anniversary of the observance of the World Day of Prayer which is always held the first Friday in Lent.

Special projects for this year include establishment of a radio and audio-visual program for all Africa. The co-directors will be an African and a missionary who will plan and coordinate the work in training leadership in the churches for the audio-visual program.

At headquarters a library and an information service will be maintained. Studios will be set up all over Africa to produce programs in local languages which will relate the radio listeners to the local church. In Africa there are now five and one-half million radio receiving sets and each year the number increases by the thousands.

If this year's offering approximates last year's, another overseas need can begin to be met. This concerns training, formal and informal, in education for Christian Women overseas. New freedoms bring new opportunities and responsibilities to Christian Women to serve their communities, their churches, their countries in dozens of capacities. The size of the gifts will determine the extent to which this work can be carried on.

Victories in Viet Nam Against Reds

By MALCOLM M. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces using decisive airpower scored two major victories over the Communist Viet Cong in the past two days, killing more than 100 Red guerrillas and wounding or capturing hundreds more, officials of President Ngo Dinh Diem's government said today.

U.S. Army helicopters with American crews supported the followup of one operation and U.S.-supplied fighter bombers provided the knockout punch for the other, the officials said.

The reported military successes are understood to be South Viet Nam's biggest of the year. They followed closely on three straight setbacks for Diem's pro-Western government.

Government ground forces following up a strike by the South Viet Nam air force in Phuoc Thanh Province found 60 Viet Cong bodies Monday. They estimated at least 240 more Communist guerrillas were wounded in the attack by the single-engine propeller planes Sunday.

Phuoc Thanh and parts of surrounding provinces are classified by the Communists as a liberated area long under their domination and relatively free of government control.

Resigns Post in Printing Mixup

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A third printing company official has resigned his post on a state board in order to qualify for state printing contracts.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus announced Monday the resignation of F. N. Carnahan of Eudora from the board of the state Boys Training School. Faubus said ill health and the printing contract situation prompted the resignation of Carnahan, publisher of the Eudora Enterprise, who had been a member of the board since 1957. His term expires Jan. 14, 1963.

Others who resigned were Hubert L. Ferguson of Conway, from the Board of Education, and Ralph Van Meter of Judsonia, from the board of the Negro Boys Industrial School.

The resignations were touched off by a state Supreme Court ruling Feb. 26 that invalidated state printing contracts held by the Park Printing Co., whose president, Harry Parkin, is a member of the state Highway Commission. The court cited a constitutional prohibition against state officials holding contracts with the state.

Secretary of State Nancy J. Hall said bids on the 15 contracts held by Parkin would be opened March 30.

If Parkin were to resign the post he still holds, he could again seek the $1 million worth of contracts. Faubus said Monday he had not prompted Parkin to remain on the commission or resign.

Three contracts held by Van Meter's White County Publishing Co., were ruled void by Atty. Gen. Frank Holt following the Supreme Court decision.

Bids on the three contracts were readvertised Monday by Mrs. Hall.

This brings Little Rock's total population to 125,046.

E. Jack Murphy, City Finance Director, estimated the larger population will add $106,998 in general and street tax state turnback funds to the city.

Bad Storm Strikes U. S. East Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The worst storm of the waning winter walloped the region from Alabama to New England today.

Fierce winds and a snowfall measuring up to 23 inches disrupted travel, sent tides pounding ashore in low coastal areas and caused considerable damage.

Power wires were downed and windows were broken.

Schools were forced to close in some areas and traffic was either halted or restricted on numerous highways.

Gusts up to 58 miles an hour and heavy seas tore away a part of Atlantic City's famed Steel Pier, a summer amusement facility which juts half a mile out into the Atlantic from the resort city's boardwalk.

The wrecked portion of the pier was used for a water circus, featuring a diving horse.

A part of the municipal pier at Ventnor, N.J., also was washed away.

The heaviest snowfall during the early morning hours was recorded in northern Virginia. It was measured at 22 to 23 inches in Culpeper, Manassas and Winchester.

Counting a previous accumulation, and the depth was 30 inches in some sections of central and western Virginia.

The forecast for most areas on the northeastern seaboard called for a heavy snowfall to continue into the night.

At least 30,000 homes in the Maryland and Virginia areas around Washington, D.C. lost their electric power when the snow downed trees and power lines.

The District of Columbia, which had four to five inches by 8 a.m., invoked emergency rules under which motorists are subject to arrest on key thoroughfares if they block traffic because of a lack of chains or snow tires.

Similar rules also invoked subject drivers to the same penalty if they try to make nonessential trips or park on major streets.

Train and bus travelers had their troubles and so did ferryboat passengers in New York.

Commuters bound for work in New York City were delayed on the South Shore lines of the Long Island Rail Road because high winds blew down power cables.

Ferries linking Manhattan with New Jersey and Staten Island were halted or delayed at times.

A large tree was blown across the Pennsylvania Railroad's Chestnut Hill line at the Moreland station in Philadelphia and tied up service for an hour for commuters.

Buses were running four hours late between Washington and Pittsburgh. All buses between the capital and Richmond, Va., were canceled. Sixteen buses due in Washington from Richmond since 6:30 p.m. Monday had not arrived by morning. They were reported bogged down in a traffic jam on U.S. No. 1 near Richmond.

Propaganda Must Be Kept Out, JFK Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy told Soviet Premier Khrushchev today that the purpose of the great powers now in approaching negotiations at Geneva must be to avoid "sterile exchanges of propaganda" and make real progress toward disarmament.

Kennedy welcomed Khrushchev's decision to send Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to meet with U.S. and British foreign ministers at Geneva in advance of the March 14 disarmament conference. The President suggested March 12—next Monday—as the starting date for three-power talks.

Kennedy, meanwhile, arranged to meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and other diplomatic, military and atomic advisers, at 5 p.m. today to talk about U.S. disarmament policy. Rusk is expected to leave Washington Saturday for Geneva.

The White House announced those at the meeting will include, in addition to the President and Rusk: William Foster, disarmament director, and Adrian Fisher, deputy director; Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara; and Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, director of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Kennedy's message to Khrushchev, replying to a lengthy note from the Soviet leader which was delivered here Sunday, was very brief. It was delivered in Moscow early today and released by the White House here later.

Khrushchev, disappointed in his campaign to press Kennedy and other Western and neutralist leaders into a summit meeting at Geneva, had reluctantly agreed in his message to send Gromyko to meet with Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Averis.

Special Mission Heads for Chile

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A special U.S. mission headed for Chile today for discussions about economic development under the Alliance for Progress plan.

The group, including alliance coordinator Theodore Moscoso and Deputy Asst. Secretary of State Richard N. Goodwin, left here early today. The flight was delayed by the late arrival of Goodwin on a National Airlines plane.

That was one of several planes held up Sunday night by bomb scares in the New York-Newark area.

Chile last week presented to the Organization of American States a 10-year economic and social development program calling for investment of $10 million under the alliance program. This would include $2.5 million in foreign funds and $7.5 million from Chile.

Faubus Keeps ESD Workers, May Lose Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — A letter from Gov. Orval E. Faubus has prompted the U.S. Civil Service Commission to begin proceedings that could deprive the Arkansas Employment Security division of a large portion of federal funds.

The letter informed the commission that Luke Arnett and Charles P. Wood still are employed by the ESD although the commission has ordered them discharged for violation of the federal Hatch Act.

The amount of money that might be withheld would be equal to the salaries of both men for two years.

The commission, which subsidizes the ESD, ordered the men fired after they were cited for participation in Faubus' 1960 gubernatorial campaign. They were charged with soliciting funds from ESD employees.

Philip LaMacchia, chief of the commission's Hatch Act and Lili-gation Section, said the first step in the process of having the Labor Department funds withheld will be the drafting of a petition which should be completed within two weeks.

The petition then will be sent to a hearing examiner who will issue an interlocutory order to which the state will have 15 days to reply.

The reply, either through oral arguments or in writing, must show cause why the funds should not be withheld.

The examiner, as yet unnamed, will then issue a final report to the commission, which in turn will issue its final order.

A third employee, William Watkins, was found guilty early this year of violating the ban against political activity by employees of an agency subsidized wholly or partially by the federal government, but he resigned Feb. 1.

Under the statute, LaMacchia pointed out, guilty employees must be discharged within 30 days after receiving notice of commission action. If they aren't, the commission must recommend that federal funds be withheld.

Notice was given Arnett and Wood on Jan. 15 and 17, respectively.

The 30 days expired Feb. 16 and the commission sent a letter to Faubus, who did not reply until Friday.

U2 Pilot Powers Did Duty to the Nation, CIA Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency reported today that U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers lived up to the terms of his employment and "his obligations as an American."

The House Armed Services Committee made public the report on the case of the pilot whose photographic reconnaissance plane came down deep within Russia in May, 1960.

Based on an exhaustive investigation by the CIA and an advisory board, the report cleared Powers of yielding under pressure to tell more than he was authorized to say to his captor.

The intelligence agency said that Powers and other U2 pilots were authorized to "surrender without resistance and adopt a cooperative attitude toward their captors" should evasion not prove feasible and capture appear imminent.

U2 pilots, moreover, were instructed that they were "perfectly free to tell the full truth about their mission with the exception of certain specifications of the aircraft."

The report found that Powers followed these instructions and did what he was authorized to do in admitting his previous Air Force service and his employment by the Central Intelligence Agency.

This statement was the first official acknowledgment that Powers was employed by the CIA, although there had been little doubt of it.

The report said the poisoned needle carried by Powers, mentioned in his trial in Moscow, was "intended for use primarily if the pilot were subjected to torture or other circumstances which in his discretion warranted the taking of his own life."

"There were no instructions that he should commit suicide and no expectation that he would do so in those situations just described," it added.

The report said there was no evidence to support any belief that Powers' predicament was brought on by "pressure from or defection to the Russians." It also ruled out the possibility of sabotage.

The intelligence agency reported that Powers told his investigators that he could have reached the "destruct" switches which would have set off an explosive charge in the plane.

The report appeared to accept Powers' explanation that, although he could have pulled the switches, he could not, at that time, get into position to eject himself from the doomed and falling aircraft.

Powers, who was released by Russia Feb. 10, in exchange for master Soviet spy Rudolf I. Abel, goes before the Senate Armed Services committee at 2 p.m. for testimony on the incident in which his plane was forced down on May 1, 1960.

It will be Powers' first public appearance since his exchange in Germany and flight back to the United States.

The CIA statement said that competent experts had studied Powers' description of his experiences when he and his plane were buffeted by an explosion at high altitude "and have concluded on the basis of scientific analysis that a U2 plane damaged as he described would perform in its descent in about the manner he stated."

"Accordingly," the report said, "the amount due Mr. Powers on Continued on Page Two

Injunction Revives Work on Missile Base

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pickets were being removed today from 17 Titan missile construction sites in central Arkansas as the result of an injunction issued Monday night by Pulaski Chancery Court.

Copies of the temporary restraining order were served today on L. B. Freeman, business agent for the Sheet Metal Workers Union, and he began ordering pickets and those who honored picket lines to return to work.

A hearing on whether the temporary order should be made permanent was set for March 14.

Freeman said the normal work should be resumed at the sites by Wednesday.

The workers struck over a jurisdictional dispute with carpenters over which union would install acoustical lining for launch and blast ducts.

About 1,000 workers refused to cross the picket lines and work was at a virtual standstill. Some workers, including the carpenters, were on the job.

One missile site in the 18-site complex was not involved in the dispute because it has not reached the acoustical installation stage. It was not picketed.

Col. Julian M. Bleyer, commander of the site activation task force detachment at the Little Rock Air Force Base, told newsmen Monday that the underground missile sites would become operational next year. The program is costing the government $100 million.

Bleyer said the strike took the Air Force by surprise, and he charged the union with using unfair methods.

"This is a program for the defense of our country," he said, "and I think everyone should do his utmost to see that it is not delayed."

The acoustical insulation involved in the dispute will line the walls of the launch tubes for the missiles and the ducts that will carry away the missiles' exhaust.

The sheet metal workers' attorney, J. B. Dodds, said the strike was called because the jurisdictional question had not been settled by the AFL-CIO joint Board for settling jurisdictional disputes.

Dodds said the dispute was a continuation of one which caused a temporary work stoppage last Jan. 30. Pickets were removed early in February after the dispute was referred to the board.

Bleyer said he had advised Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., recently, that the missile project was 40 days ahead of schedule.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In their race not to be second, the United States and Russia are caught in their own gigantic and gruesome trap.

They're too stuck with fear of each other not to test their terrible weapons to make them even more terrible. What they say to each other about it, and about each other, is taking a monotonous recitation. They even use the same word, "blackmail," against each other. They're beginning to look incapable of getting unstuck. The result is no end of testing is in sight.

Last August, when the Soviets said they would end a three year voluntary ban on testing, the White House issued a statement that said the Russian announcement was primarily a form of "atomic blackmail, designed to substitute terror for reason."

Now, six months later, President Kennedy says the United States will resume testing to keep the Russians from getting ahead unless they agree to a test ban with an inspection system to prevent cheating.

To this over the weekend the Russian news agency Tass responded: This "strongly resembles blackmail."

Last Sept. 9, eight days after the Soviets had resumed testing, this country and Britain appealed to Premier Khrushchev for an immediate test ban, untested until a treaty could be agreed on. Khrushchev rejected this, saying Russia "will not agree to such a deal; it is possible to end nuclear tests only on the basis of general and complete disarmament."

General disarmament discussion is scheduled to begin March 14 in Geneva and Russia has suggested letting a nuclear test ban be made part of the talks, but the Kremlin has already said it will not buy a policed inspection system.

Without an inspection system, no agreement seems possible, because ever since World War II

Tshomba Claims UN Attacking

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshomba claimed today 1,200 United Nations troops from Katanga base launched a surprise attack this morning on the nearby town of Kamina, Katanga.

He said bitter fighting was still going on and there were an unknown number of killed and wounded on both sides.

The Katanga leader told a news conference the U.N. troops began their attack at 11:30 a.m.

The town of Kamina is 18 miles from the big U.N. air and military base.

Negro Ex-Slave 122, Succumbs

NASHVILLE, Ark. (AP)— Mrs. Lucy Caledonia Bradford, a Negro who claimed she was born into slavery in Alabama in about 1840 and was about 122 years old, died in a rest home Sunday.

The woman told nursing home attendants she wasn't sure whether she was born in 1840 or 1841, or whether she was 121 or 122 year old. But she told stories of incidents that she said happened before the Civil War.

Her son, William Bradford of Nashville, said he was born in 1894 in Mississippi. His mother came to live with him in 1954. She went from Alabama to Mississippi to Chicago in her earlier years.

Funeral services and burial will be here.

This country has refused any disarmament without inspection.

This is the biggest sticking point between East and West.

Yet, although Khrushchev last September turned down a temporary untested test ban, now Kennedy says the United States will resume testing unless Russia agrees to an inspected ban.

So, Khrushchev, who turned down an untested ban, seems certain to turn down the opposite kind, which is the kind he wants least. Tass has already indicated he will do just that.

It said Kennedy's proposal is "completely unacceptable," claiming the inspection system would leave Russia wide open to spying.

When the Russians resumed atmospheric testing last September, and the world shuddered at the thought of radioactive fallout, Washington took quick propaganda advantage of it.

The White House at the time issued a statement saying, "This presents a hazard to every human being and a threat to the entire world by increasing the danger of nuclear holocaust."

Now the shoe is on the other foot. The Soviets can be expected to make their own propaganda mileage out of American testing.

Mother-In-Law Can Forgive But Not Forget

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I have just returned from a week's visit in my son's home, the first and last I'll ever make. He married 12 years ago and often brings his wife and little girl here. I treat them all lovingly but that's not the way my daughter-in-law treated me. My son would be gone to work by the time I got dressed. The first morning his wife was reading the newspaper when I came out of my bedroom. She never spoke, looked up nor offered to get breakfast. So I went in the kitchen, toasted a piece of bread, fixed a cup of tea, ate alone at the kitchen table, then washed the dishes, went back to my room and made my bed.

The only morning she ever spoke to me was the last one. I asked her if my son ate his breakfast before he went to work. She said, "I don't know," and kept on reading the paper. She lets her husband cook his own meals. My son has a fine job and they live well. I never let on to him the way she acted nor will I ever tell my other children. You are the only one who knows. My son, his wife and daughter will visit me next fall. I'll treat her nice. Don't you think that's best?

Why did she act so, is she crazy or could she be just plain jealous? I kept myself looking extra special because I wanted my son to be proud of me. Maybe that got my daughter-in-law. What do you think—Mad?

Dear Mad: Your daughter-in-law's rudeness follows the usual in-law technique. Jealousy is usually the cause. Any interference on your part will only precipitate further trouble. If your son is supine enough to take on the cooking, that's his problem, not yours. So far your restraint has been admirable. If you continue to ignore the situation, you'll be the winner.

Dear Helen: My husband is impossible! I was a widow with three children when I foolishly believed his promise to love and care for all of us if I married him.

Now that I've born him a baby he refuses to even look at the other children. I love them all and it kills me to see the three elder ones hurt.

We fight all the time over this. Last night I told him I was leaving. "Go," he shouted, "and take your three brats but you'll not take mine!" I can't leave baby.

I made good money before I married him. Whether I could now, is debatable. He is an inventor and as a consequence it's either feast or famine. Right now it's famine for all the money he made has gone into his latest invention so I couldn't expect or get any financial settlement from him. He gives me $20 a week for household expenses. On that I'm supposed to feed six humans, a dog, cat and 10 goldfish.—Trapped.

Dear Trapped: At best, inventors are insecure. Your husband is hitting back at your former husband when he shuns the children of your first marriage. All you can do at the moment is lavish an extra amount of love on them and give time a chance to unsnarl your problem. The picture will change rapidly if your husband's latest invention proves successful. Be understanding and take into consideration the fact that he's under a strain.

Dear Helen: Is it right for a wife who works to stop on the way home for a drink with a guy in the same office. I say every married person should come straight home with no nonsense on the side. My wife contends that both husband and wife are entitled to married and single loves at the same time.—Am-I-Wrong

Dear Am: Your wife must have been talking when she had one too many drinks. Of course you're right but better look into the cause of your wife's phandering if you want your marriage to remain intact. Maybe she craves more attention. Try calling for her yourself after work and, if she wants to stop on the way stop with her. Take her out. Send her a flower now and then. Show her in every way you can, that she's your girl.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine, care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "The Way to a Girl's Heart."

Bailey Attorneys Plan an Appeal

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Attorneys for convicted Negro rapist Luther Bailey say they will appeal dismissal of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

The attorneys contend Bailey's second trial in January was illegal because it was not held within the nine month period set by the federal appellate court March 17, 1961.

In January Bailey was convicted for the second time of raping a white Little Rock widow. In 1961 the appellate court ordered that Bailey be retried or released.

Congress Is Behind JFK Test Action

By LARRY OSIUS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders jumped immediately and solidly behind President Kennedy's announcement that the United States will resume atmospheric nuclear testing late next month unless Russia agrees to an enforceable test ban.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said leaders of both parties met with the President before his nationwide television and radio address Friday night and supported the decision.

"In spite of the rebuffs from the Russians, he (Kennedy) has shown great patience," Mansfield said. "The attitude of the Soviet Union leaves no choice but to do what he has done. If the Soviet Union is still interested, there is still time to come to a foolproof and lasting agreement."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he and House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana have been calling for resumption of U. S. atmospheric tests for the past nine months.

"The President has discharged his full responsibility in his offer to desist if the Soviets will act to sign an adequate treaty with the necessary safeguards," Dirksen said. "Civilization could require no more than this."

But Dirksen stressed that he means a signed treaty. "This doesn't mean that the Russians could say they are ready to sign and have the tests put off," he said.

Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, said "President Kennedy has indeed 'gone the last mile' in his efforts to obtain a genuine test-ban agreement."

His committee, he said, had been advised that fallout from the U. S. tests "will not constitute a significant population hazard."

House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts called it "a courageous decision and a sound one in the national interest."

New Wave of Bombings in Algeria

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS (AP) — A record-breaking wave of 135 plastic bomb explosions rocked Algiers for 90 minutes before dawn today in a new demonstration of strength by the European Secret Army Organization.

Twelve persons were injured, but no deaths were reported from the thundering blasts. Police headquarters said 13 men were arrested either fleeing the scenes of the blasts or preparing to set off new charges. They formed three of what police estimated were a score of teams that carried out the attacks.

Most of the blasts were aimed against Moslem stores or parked automobiles belonging to Moslems. Police said no public buildings were damaged.

Thousands of Europeans in night clothes crowded to their windows and onto balconies, listening to the blasts and counting them. Cheers went up in the Bab El-Oued section with every explosion.

"It was a real festival," one European woman said beaming. European settlers close to the right-wing underground said the operation was part of a Secret Army plan to keep the Moslems in check.

The explosions ended at daybreak with the same suddenness they began in an expertly timed, massive show of strength by the European terrorists.

By noon life in Algiers appeared normal again except for tense troops patrolling the city.

The wave of plastic explosions came on the heels of a government communique which said the authorities were scoring important progress in their fight against the Secret Army.

The first blasts went off at 4:45 a.m. in the heart of the capital and then spread with rapid-fire precision to all sections of the city.

Rows of shop windows were shattered, covering several streets with glass and debris. Many stores were set on fire.

The raiders steered clear of heavily guarded government buildings.

Troops and police patrolled downtown Algiers in a nightmarish atmosphere. Bursts of machine-gun fire were heard.

The bombing was the first major outbreak by the underground army to hit Algiers in two months.

The secret army showed increasing boldness and desperation with the final peace accord between the Algerian Moslem nationalists and French President Charles de Gaulle coming closer to pave the way for Algeria's independence.

Eleven of 12 Italian newsmen covering the Algerian developments fled home after being threatened with death. American and British reporters were warned to watch their step—or else.

The one Italian correspondent who chose to stay, Nicola Caracciolo of Rome's Il Giorno, went to French government general headquarters accompanied by American and British newsmen to appeal for protection.

"We cannot protect our own people," one French official told them. "How do you expect us to protect you?"

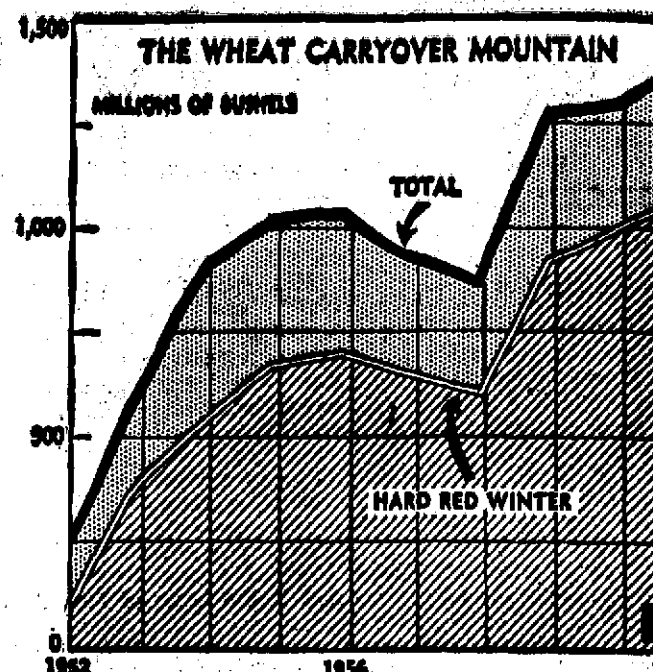

Weekend Theft of Furs Probed

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Police are investigating the weekend theft of an estimated $60,000 in furs brought here for a special sale.

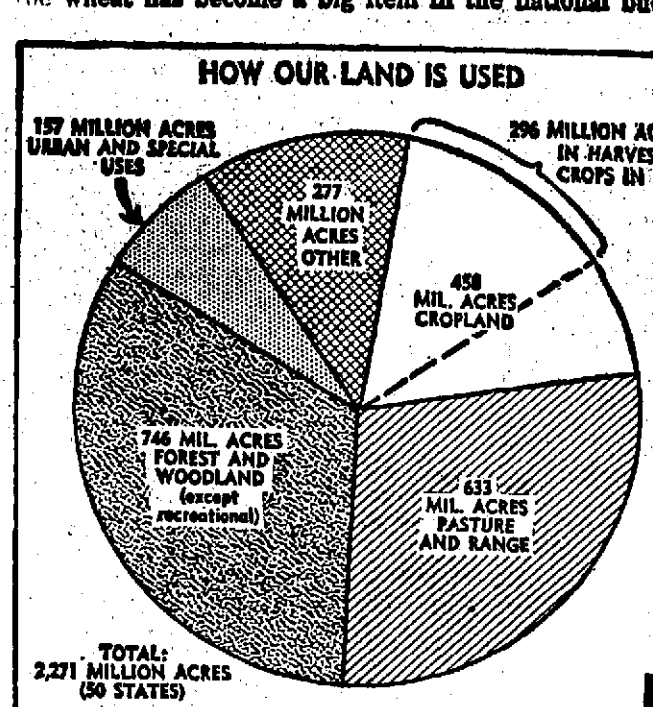

Det. Ernest Dodd said a portion of the furs was taken from Clyde's Boutique Shop in downtown Hot Springs and the rest from a parked car.

Boutique Shop officials reported the first theft at 6 p.m. Saturday.

The remainder of the furs had been loaded in the car of William Kelley of Little Rock, representative of a Little Rock fur dealer,

THE FAT YEARS—Unlike Egypt of the Biblical Joseph, future lean years do not promise to dent the nation's stockpile of wheat. Chart, based on U.S. Department of Agriculture data, shows that, except for two years, wheat carryover (excess of production over needs) has risen—from 256 million bushels in 1952 to 1.4 billion bushels in 1961. Storage of the wheat has become a big item in the national budget.

THE FERTILE LAND—Most important uses of American more than 2 1/4 billion acres of land are shown in chart above. Of the total, 458 million acres are available for crops, but 1961, only two-thirds of this cropland was harvested. Because of increased productivity and advances in technology, production was ample for all needs, both domestic and export. Data from U.S. Department of Agriculture.

BROWNSTONE GOTHIC by Elizabeth Shontz

Chapter 26
Will was startled when Midgely addressed him of his own free will. "House seems empty," he observed.

Will remembered Mrs. Russell had taken her maid with her and didn't let his inward smile show, but answered gravely that the voyage was to be of indefinite length, crusing the New England coast. Probably, Will added, they wouldn't return until shortly before Miss Jenny's birthday. Since Midgely must know that Jenny's coming of age would be on July 14, Will thought this would end the conversation, but Midgely added one more question.

"Why didn't he go?" He jerked his head toward the inner office. "Said there was too much to do, getting the books ready for the trustees."

And, as the days passed, Will's work lessened, but Midgely's increased. He spent hours closeted with George Russell, emerging to work harder than ever.

A tap sounded on the door one morning, when Midgely was with George Russell, and Will, feet on his desk, had a law book in his lap. He looked up, absently, and there was Race Nash.

"Hullo," Race said. "All alone?"

Will looked around the room. "Seems that way."

Race closed the door. "Friend of mine told me my sister and Jenny had gone off in the yacht."

Will was surprised. "Didn't you know? They've been gone about ten days."

Race propped himself against Midgely's desk and grinned, frankly. "Not exactly persona grata around here just now." He paused. "Care to tell me what happened?"

Will couldn't see any harm in it, so he recounted Jenny's illness, and the doctor's recommended trip.

"I see." Race idly flipped the pages of Midgely's ledger. Will thought the brief answer cloaked a certain tension.

"Where's young Skin - and-bones?" Race asked.

Will's eyebrows went up. "Midgely? In with Mr. Russell."

"Oh? Didn't know he worked so closely with Brother George?" "He has lately."

Uncle George's notion that Hilda could run the house in Miss Maggy's place was, of course, a farce. She made dutiful attempts, but Saunders and his staff contr

Colorado Is In Again in the Big Eight

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

In-and-out Colorado is in again—in solid control of the Big Eight basketball chase, that is.

The Buffaloes, getting a big assist from Oklahoma State, have regained the conference lead and are now only one step away from the NCAA tourney, a berth they apparently had lost for good in a defeat by potent Kansas State last week.

But Oklahoma State found the third-ranked Wildcats looking the other way Monday night and registered a 74-68 upset, the first time the Cowboys had beaten Kansas State in 19 games.

It dropped Kansas State into second place in the conference with an 11-2 mark. Colorado, which took Missouri 73-64, is now 12-1. Each has one game left. Kansas State must beat Nebraska Wednesday to retain a chance for a tie while Colorado, which led most of the season only to fall in the last couple of weeks, can win it all with a victory over Kansas Saturday.

Kansas State was only one of three nationally ranked teams which suffered upsets Monday night, but the Wildcats' loss may have been the most costly.

Sixth-ranked Bradley was nipped 73-72 by Duquesne, but it didn't affect the Braves' tie for the top in the Missouri Valley Conference. They met Cincinnati in a one-game playoff for the conference title and the NCAA spot. The loser goes to the NIT.

Loyola of Chicago, which just moved into the No. 10 spot nationally, fell before Xavier of Ohio 66-88. Loyola, however, is an independent and was passed over for the at-large post in the NCAA.

Only Kentucky, No. 4, of the nationally ranked teams in action Monday night, came through on schedule. The Wildcats, already headed for the NCAA, rolled over Tulane 97-72 and increased their record to 21-2 for the season.

In some of the other major games, Syracuse won its second straight—after losing a record of 27 in a row—76-67 over Connecticut; Jimmy Rayl popped in 37 points and moved into a tie for the Big Ten scoring leadership with Purdue's Terry Dischinger in the Hoosiers' 104-92 triumph over Illinois; Daryl Petch hit the winning field goal with two seconds left in overtime for Nebraska's 71-69 victory over Oklahoma; Minnesota wallowed Michigan 102-80; and Kansas upset Iowa State 76-71.

Porks Could Salvage Pride With a Win

DALLAS (AP)—Arkansas' Razorbacks can win some solace for a painful Southwest Conference basketball season by beating SMU tonight and knocking the Mustangs out of a tie for the league title.

Arkansas won nine straight games early in the season and was ranked as a conference favorite, but dropped to a 5-8 league record, not even in the first division.

SMU and Texas Tech have 10-3 records and if both win tonight, they'll tie for the title and meet in a playoff game in Fort Worth to determine who gets the NCAA playoff berth March 12 against Air Force.

Tech meets Rice tonight in Houston, and Rice hasn't lost a game on its home court all season.

Arkansas is still 14-7 for the season and can push it to 15-7, a respectable figure, by beating the Mustangs.

Coach Glen Rose said he will stick with his regular starters.

These Riflemen Are Experts

LARRY DON WRIGHT (LEFT), SON OF DR. AND MRS. George Wright and Mike Westbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Westbrook both completed qualifications for their Expert Rifleman award last week. Larry and Mike join a select group of shooters both locally and nationally in earning this award and are the youngest shooters ever to qualify as Expert for the local Rifle Club. They follow in the steps of Charles "Butch" Graham, David Moore and Richard "Sonny" Kitchens as the only other recipients of this award to date.

BOTH SHOOTERS ALSO HOLD A SHARPSHOOTER rating from the department of the Army that is awarded annually to members of Jr. Rifle Clubs that qualify in all of the four shooting positions. On the basis of their NRA qualifications, they should both receive an Expert rating from the Dept. of Army in 1962.

THEY HAVE ONLY TO EARN THEIR DISTINGUISHED Rifleman award to reach the ultimate in Jr. Rifle shooting.

Richard "Sonny" Kitchens

Richard "Sonny" Kitchens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kitchens, Hope, completed his qualifications for Distinguished Rifleman in early March to become the first shooter from the local club to ever accomplish this. Sonny earned his Expert award in 1961 and has been working since November on his latest award. This Rifle Qualification represents the 15th and highest award that a Jr. Rifleman can achieve with only a very few being earned in the entire United States each year. Kitchens will receive from the National Rifle Association, free of charge, a gold medal, a gold lapel pin and an embroidered brassard along with a year's membership to the NRA, including a year's subscription to the American Rifleman.

In addition to earning this award, Kitchens has also taken and passed an NRA test and gained enough actual instructing experience to qualify as a Certified Assistant Rifle Instructor. Upon reaching his 78th birthday, he will automatically become a Certified Instructor. Sonny is certainly to be commended for his contribution to rifle shooting in our local area.

Stahr Denies He Will Resign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elvis J. Stahr Jr. has denied reports that he is planning to resign as secretary of the Army to become a university president.

Stahr issued a statement Sunday in reply to a story that he was considering leaving the government to become president of the University of Indiana. He said that some weeks ago he had learned that he was one of a number of people being considered for the Indiana post.

Stahr, who will be 64 Friday, was president of West Virginia University before becoming secretary of the Army in January 1961.

SWC Referees Take Lie Detector Tests

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Southwest Conference basketball referees finished taking lie detector tests today to counter game-fixing claims.

Seventeen referees took the tests Monday and Sunday while strapped to a polygraph (lie detector) machine.

Abh Curtis, conference supervisor of officials, said the group, estimated to be 22, are taking the tests voluntarily to clear up suspicion cast recently on the officiating in several conference games.

The examinations were being given by the Department of Public Safety Polygraph Supervisor H. A. Albert and an examiner, Tom Barnes, brought in from Lubbock. Two machines were being used, with each test taking more than an hour.

Several of the referees, reached by reporters through a DPS official, said they would not make a statement to newsmen.

The DPS earlier confirmed that Curtis had asked for the tests to be given the officials, and that the tests were voluntary.

DPS spokesmen refused to reveal the names of officials taking the tests since they were in Austin voluntarily.

"All of them are down here," Curtis said, "I don't know how many. It's just all of them."

The DPS said early in the day that results of the tests would be turned over to conference officials. Curtis said that DPS would handle the results.

Later, Col. Homer Garrison, DPS director, said, "We will get together with officials of the Southwest Conference on what disposition will be taken of the tests."

Garrison said last Friday that the department had an investigation under way. A Dallas FBI agent confirmed "two people" were under investigation.

The investigation began after New York Post sports columnist Gene Roswell wrote that Eastern gamblers "are having headaches with the hoop shenanigans reportedly coming out of the Southwest Conference. The point spreads on SWC games move like water and most bookmakers won't carry their action," Roswell said.

He said referees, not the players, were involved.

No Ruling on Speech Copyright

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court put off today a final ruling on whether government officials may copyright as private property their public speeches on official matters.

Two appeals raised the issue, but the court said it could not decide a matter of such serious public concern at this time because so fragile a record was submitted to it.

The court acted on an appeal by Public Affairs Press of Washington, D. C., which had sought to publish speeches by Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, a Navy expert on atomic submarines. Rickover copyrighted some of his speeches.

A separate appeal by Rickover involved the status of 22 of his speeches that were not individually copyrighted.

On both appeals, the Supreme Court set aside a decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals here and told it to send the case back to the U.S. District Court for disposition not inconsistent with the opinion.

The way is thus left open for a possible final Supreme Court ruling on the issues later when a stronger record is made.

'Way of the Cross' Is a TV Classic

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A couple of seasons back, NBC producer Lou Hazam presided over the making of a beautiful, reverent and decidedly unusual television program: "Way of the Cross."

Pictorially, the program was a retracing of the route which Jesus followed on his way to the Cross. It is already considered a television classic.

Among the side-products of the show was the opening of a new, fresh approach to the documentary for Hazam. It is a long way between "Way of the Cross" in Jerusalem to U. S. Route 1, but the producer is applying the lessons learned in the first to the latter. Result will be the biography of a highway, a special program to be shown March 29.

Instead of concentrating on a person, the program will star the 2,500 miles of road that starts at Fort Kent, Maine, just south of the Canadian border, and ends at Key West, Fla. With the camera following its meandering course down the Eastern seacoast, Hazam has an opportunity to dip into American mores and history—the Revolution in New England, the Civil War south of Washington.

"It's a stimulating thing to do—and I've learned so much about my own country just working on it," said Hazam.

After "U. S. Route 1: American Profile," Hazam's next subject

Try to Revive Steel Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration may move Tuesday to get suspended steel labor negotiations going again at an early date.

That was the word today from officials studying the sudden collapse of steel contract talks in Pittsburgh last Friday night.

The attitude of the administration is not one of discouragement but a feeling that considerable progress has been made, they said.

The industry reportedly had proceeded at least halfway in meeting union demands estimated to cost in the neighborhood of 12 cents an hour. The steelworkers now average $3.28 an hour in wages, plus nearly $1 more an hour worth of additional benefits.

for biography is the river Nile—the whole length of the world's longest waterway.

ABC, getting a touch of that old-time religion from Washington attitudes towards television, announced Monday it would start a daily, late afternoon children's program, "Discovery" next October. This was the series which ABC said several months ago was rejected by its affiliated stations.

As things stand, the kiddie show is set Monday through Friday 4:30-4:50 p. m. (EST) which currently is occupied by the last portion of Dick Clark's teen-directed "American Bandstand."

Piersall in Middle of A Squabble

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

POMPAHO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Jimmy Piersall, baseball's stormy petrel, said today he was stunned and hurt by charges of his Washington teammate, Gene Woodling, that he was getting preferential treatment.

Woodling, the Senators' player representative, charged Monday that Piersall, the club's highest paid player, got a room to himself and demanded special eating money and bed boards.

"Who does this guy think he is—Joe DiMaggio?" Woodling asked. "I don't like this prima donna treatment he's getting."

"There's nothing personal in this," Woodling continued. "I'm all for him. I hope he hits .350. I want to help him and I'll bend over backwards to do it. But when it comes to disrupting harmony, I've got to do something about it."

Piersall said he had never asked for any special favors and he was at a loss to understand why Woodling had made the charges.

"I have always liked and admired Gene very much," Piersall said. "I don't know why he is teasing off on me."

Piersall said he came to camp determined not to create any controversies.

"I promised my wife, Mary, before I left that I would watch what I say. I was determined to be just another guy."

"When I was in Cleveland, they (the management) sent me to a psychiatrist. The psychiatrist recommended that I room alone. I can't stand smoke. I'm an early riser and have other habits which

Ohio State Is Tops Despite Big Upset

Ohio State suffered the most stunning upset of the college basketball season Saturday but the Buckeyes still hold a firm grip on the top ranking in this week's Associated Press poll.

However, for the first time in 12 weeks the Bucks were not received 40 first place votes from the panel of experts Mississippi State picked up three and Cincinnati got the other two.

Wisconsin's hostling Badgers pinned the surprising setback on Ohio State, spilling the Bucks' chances for a perfect season with an 86-67 victory at Madison. The loss was Ohio State's first in 23 starts this season and ended its Big Ten Conference winning streak at 27 games.

The Buckeyes who have one game remaining — against Indiana Saturday—piled up 444 points on a basis of 10 for a first, nine for a second and so on. They were given four seconds and one third. Cincinnati's Bearcats, who closed out their regular season with a 61-58 decision over Xavier (Ohio) for a 24-2 record, gained 32 votes for second and stayed in the runnerup spot with 392 points.

Kansas State in third, Kentucky in fourth, Mississippi State in fifth and Bradley in sixth also kept the spots they held last week.

Utah's Skyline champions climbed three places to seventh, Bowling Green and Duke each slipped one notch, and Loyola of Chicago took over tenth from Colorado.

Jukebox Revenue Tax Challenged

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court received a lawsuit Monday questioning the state's right to levy a sales tax on jukebox revenues.

C. E. Tolliver, a Pointsett County owner of coin-operated music machines, went to court last year after the state Revenue Department sought payments of $2,789 in penalty and taxes from him for failing to pay the tax between July 1, 1957 and June 30, 1960.

Tolliver claimed there was no provision in the sale tax law that required payment of a tax on jukeboxes and that payment of the tax would result in a lack of uniformity in his payment of the income tax.

The Revenue Department appealed the case after Pointsett Chancellor Gene E. Bradley of Blytheville ruled in favor of Tolliver.

Injuries Begin to Crop Up in Training Camps

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Freddie Hutchinson of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds is faced with his first on-the-field crisis today when he must try to find a replacement for slugging third baseman Gene Freese.

Freese broke an ankle in the Reds' intra-squad game Monday. Hutchinson indicated that he would give rookie Cliff Cook the chance to take over.

Not only is Hutch on the spot, but Cook is walking into a lions den.

The 25-year old infielder already has flunked two tests with the Reds, but may just have been a slow starter. He was voted the American Association's Most Valuable Player last year, playing for Indianapolis, where he batted .311 and slammed 32 home runs.

Cook's home run potential will be needed to compensate for the loss of the 28-year-old Freese. Doctors say he will miss the first two months of the season. Freese had his finest major league season in helping the Reds to the pennant. He hit .277, slammed 26 homers and drove in 87 runs after being acquired from the Chicago White Sox.

Pitchers Jack Sanford and Pete Ramos felt interested enough about the coming season to sign their contracts Monday. Sanford signed at San Francisco's Phoenix, Ariz., camp for a reported $25,000, a token raise for his 13-9 record, and Ramos, of Washington, ended his holdout by taking a slight cut from the $20,000 he got a year ago. Ramos had an 11-20 American League record and led in gofer balls with 39.

Pitcher Bob Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels also signed for the major league minimum of $6,000 which will be boosted to $7,000 if he still is with the team 30 days after the season begins.

He had protested that he was being treated unfairly by the Angels.
